The underpinnings, structure and aims of the University Network were discussed at the First International Symposium: Sustainability, Research and Teaching after Rio. Challenges for the Future, hosted by the University of Ferrara on the 29th and 30th of October 2012 and coordinated by Gianfranco Franz, urban planner at the Department of Economics and Management. At the end of 2013 Paola Spinozzi, scholar of British literature at the Department of Humanistic Studies, was appointed co-coordinator of the Network. One of her first tasks was the elaboration of a theoretical and methodological framework encompassing present and future research projects.

In 2013 representatives from the University of Ferrara, the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, the Pontificia Universidade Católica do Paraná, Curitiba, and the Universidad Católica de Córdoba met in Brazil and worked on joint teaching projects which led to the design and launch of double degree courses in Architecture, Industrial Design, Economics and Management, and Foreign Languages and Literatures. Moreover, the University of Ferrara and the Pontificia Universidade Católica do Paraná set up agreements regarding teaching staff mobility. The administrative documents finalizing the double degree courses were jointly signed in Ferrara in March 2014 during the visit of a group of delegates from PUCPR.

ROUTES Strategic Plan for 2015

In 2015 Routes towards Sustainability will increase the number of partner institutions from all the continents and will submit Horizon 2020 applications to be coordinated by Ferrara. Each partner university will be strongly encouraged to promote projects and activities focusing on research, teaching or mobility. The topic of sustainability will be investigated in a multi and interdisciplinary perspective in order to foster a productive exchange of methodological and theoretical frameworks. In particular:

- Routes towards Sustainability will approach universities which have committed themselves to supporting sustainability as the main underpinning of research and education as well as governance of the university;

- The two coordinators will publish a volume on the prevention and mitigation of multiple hazards and a volume on sustainable development and wellbeing;
- The next international Symposium will be planned and organized. Both the Pontificia Universidad Católica do Paraná and the South China University of Technology in Guangzhou have offered to host the symposium. The choice of the venue will be announced shortly.
